Klosters has arrived at Dennis Conner's North Cove and is now docked in slip N1.

She is a 150 foot Perini Navi yacht which was built in 1989. She completed her latest refit in April before crossing the Atlantic to Antigua. Then she spent time in the Bahamas and Bermuda before sailing here to New York City.

Later this summer, she will head to Newport for the "Bucket" regatta for mega yachts. And according to inside intelligence reports, Klosters will have a secret weapon, an asymmetrical spinnaker, which she hopes will bring her victory.

Perini Navis are often considered the most beautiful luxury sailboats. They are manufactured in Italy and 36 Perini Navi yachts are currently sailing around the world.

This brings back memories from 2005 when "La Numero Uno" was the first Perini Navi to visit North Cove since our new management. Every so often, the Perini Navis gather as a fleet for a special regatta. And a dream was discussed with La Numero Uno of a Perini Navi Regatta here in New York Harbor with all these beautiful yachts racing down to the Atlantic Ocean and back with the start and finish in front of the Statue of Liberty. Dreams never die.
